CRIAÇÃO VELHA

Where basalt meets the Atlantic

The villa sits beside a working cultural landscape shaped by stone, vines, wind and generations of island knowledge.

PICO ISLAND

A living vineyard landscape

Pico's UNESCO-listed vineyard culture is defined by long basalt walls and thousands of small currais built to protect vines from Atlantic wind and salt. The tradition began in the 15th century and remains especially visible around Criação Velha, immediately south of Madalena.

987 hectares

The UNESCO World Heritage property, with a 1,924-hectare buffer zone.

From the villa

Madalena's ferry port and restaurants are approximately 10 minutes away by car. Pico Airport is approximately 12 km away, while volcanic vineyards, wineries, coastal swimming areas and views toward Faial shape the villa's immediate setting.

Planning with confidence

Practical answers about services, arrival, transport and booking.

01 What services are included?

Daily breakfast, housekeeping, complimentary laundry, toiletries and personalised guest assistance are included with every reservation.

02 Can additional experiences be arranged?

Subject to availability, the team can assist with private dining, groceries, wine experiences, whale watching, walks, yoga, transfers and car hire. Additional charges may apply.

03 Do guests need a car on Pico Island?

A car is normally the most practical way to reach vineyards, villages, trailheads and coastal sites. Public transport is limited, and scenic routes can take longer than their distance suggests.

04 How do I reach the villa?

Fly to Pico Airport for the shortest transfer, or arrive at Horta on Faial and take the ferry to Madalena. Always verify seasonal schedules and leave a weather buffer.

05 Where can I see current rates and booking terms?

Use the official secure booking page. Live dates, prices, taxes, payment conditions and cancellation terms shown at confirmation take precedence over indicative brochure information.

06 What are the standard arrival and departure times?

Standard check-in is after 15:00 and check-out is by 10:00. Early arrival or late departure requires advance approval and may involve an additional charge.

PAYMENT & CANCELLATION

50% is payable when booking; the remaining 50% is due one day before arrival. The Lead Guest must be at least 21 when booking. Unless the confirmed rate expressly states different conditions: cancellation at least 90 days before arrival is free; 60–89 days before arrival costs 50% of the total; fewer than 60 days costs 100%.

Weekly stays of 7+ nights receive 10% off; monthly stays of 28+ nights receive 20% off. The discounts do not combine. The confirmed reservation shows the applicable total and conditions.

The island, at a slower pace

Useful local context for a thoughtful stay in the Azores.

01 How many days should I spend on Pico Island?

Five to seven days gives most visitors time for the vineyard landscape, coastal villages, natural swimming areas, whale watching and Mount Pico without rushing. Flexibility is valuable because Atlantic weather can change plans.

02 When is the best time to visit Pico?

Late spring to early autumn generally brings longer days and a wider choice of activities. Pico can be visited year-round, though weather is variable and some services follow reduced winter schedules.

03 What are the essential Pico experiences?

Explore the UNESCO vineyard landscape, visit wineries and small museums, book responsible whale watching, enjoy coastal swimming when conditions are safe and consider a guided Mount Pico climb.

04 Can I visit Faial or São Jorge from Pico?

Ferries connect the Triangle islands, with frequency varying by season. Faial can often work as a day trip when timetables align; São Jorge usually requires more planning.

05 What should I know about climbing Mount Pico?

Portugal's highest point is 2,351 metres. Access is regulated, conditions change quickly and appropriate clothing, water, footwear and current official guidance are essential. Consider an authorised guide.

06 How can I visit the vineyard landscape responsibly?

Use marked routes, respect private plots and basalt walls, avoid blocking local roads, follow safety guidance and support local wineries, guides, restaurants and producers.
